Woodville Plantation, the John and Presley Neville house, is Southwestern Pennsylvania's link to the late 18th century, interpreting the time period of 1780 to 1820 and documenting the lives of the three families that lived there - the Nevilles (1775 to 1815), the Cowans (1815 to 1835) and the Wrenshalls (1835 to 1975). Woodville is one of only 2,500 National Historic Landmarks in the United States. Your gift will help to support the continuing preservation, restoration and interpretation of this historic site.
